GOP map would carve up region

Wolf: 'Vicious...party manipulator'

By Mike Myers
and Angie Cairns
Staff writers

If Illinois Republicans get their way, the Democratic power base in the Quad City area will be carved into pieces.

State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said the new state legislative district map approved Friday by the five Republican members of the redistricting commission is "about as vicious a case of party manipulation as I've ever heard of."

Under that map, Wolf would be the lone incumbent in the 113th District, which would include most of Granite City south of Pontoon road, most of Nameoki Township and all of the city of Belleville, which is in St. Clair County.

The northern half of Granite City and part of West Granite would fall into the 111th District, which would include Alton and the home of incumbent Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, House majority leader.

A very small section of West Granite and all of Madison and Venice would be in the 114th District, which would include the homes of both incumbent Reps. Wyyetter Young, D-East St. Louis, and Monroe Flinn, D-Cahokia.

Wolf would lose Edwardsville to the 112th District, which would include the home of Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville.

"The Quad City area had been a power base for the Democratic Party of the area," Wolf said. "I don't think this split was aimed at me personally. I certainly hope it wasn't. But it sure has some (See MAP, Page 8A)

Assistant to replace Hawkins

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

The long-time administrative assistant of Paul Hawkins has been named to temporarily replace him as the Madison County administrator of building, zoning and environmental control.

Margaret Leleniewski of Edwardsville was appointed Monday by Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

Leleniewski, who has been with the office for more than 25 years, had served as Hawkins' administrative assistant for the last 18 years.

Hawkins, 64, who had worked in the office for nearly 25 years, died Sunday afternoon in an Alton hospital after suffering a heart attack.

"It's just so hard to believe — he was so well last week," Leleniewski said.

Leleniewski said Hagnauer called her

Sunday morning to tell her of Hawkins' condition and called again when the sad news that evening.

"Monday was really bad," Leleniewski said. "A lot of people called and wanted to talk to (Hawkins) — there were a lot of explanations given Monday."

The office was left in the hands of its three newest employees so that the others could attend Hawkins' funeral Wednesday morning, Leleniewski said.

Leleniewski said she hadn't thought about taking the helm permanently. Hagnauer has said that he will meet with county board committees before deciding on a permanent replacement.

"I haven't given much thought to it," Leleniewski said. "I've just been trying to keep things going here. It's going to be really hard without him."

Paul Lee, an environmental specialist for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's Field Operations Section, unlocks a gate Wednesday at the former Jennison-Wright property.

Site set for soil sampling

Officials from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency were at the site of the Jennison-Wright property in Granite City Wednesday to perform several different operations on the contaminated West 22nd Street site.

Paul Lee, a specialist from the IEPA's field operations section, said the team's basic purpose was to prepare the site for soil borings, to be performed next week. But workers also strengthened security around the area to prevent children and others from straying onto the property.

"We attempted to determine somewhat the extent of on-site contamination, but mainly we are preparing the site for sampling next Tuesday or Wednesday," Lee said.

Workers donning "space suits" set out water barrels and a decontamination tank in preparation for next week's activities, and checked to make sure that utility lines were not present at the soil boring sites.

Lee said IEPA's main objective at this time is to determine if the site qualifies for the National Priorities List of sites eligible for funding under the federal Superfund law.

He said samples taken next week will be evaluated by the U.S. EPA to determine if the site qualifies.

The IEPA received $848,800 from Jennison-Wright through bankruptcy proceedings earlier this year.

City officials balked at the proposed use of the funds for more study of the site. Jennison-Wright funded a study by Woodward-Clyde Consultants in 1988 — and asked the IEPA to (See SAMPLING, Page 8A)

Elevator project on hold at Village Hall

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Amid legal questions and construction problems, installation of an elevator at the Pontoon Beach Village Hall remains on hold this week.

Construction of the elevator from a $30,000 Community Development grant was halted in July because of water problems. On Tuesday night, the Village Board decided to retain an attorney to look into the legalities of the contract for the work.

When completed, the construction project would allow handicapped persons access to village board meetings that are held in a basement room.

Barier Construction Co. Inc. of Granite City successfully bid on the project and began work July 22.

But on July 26, the work was stopped when the contractor encountered water three feet above the finished floor of the elevator pit.

The company subsequently backfilled the excavated pit and the elevator project has been at a standstill since noon July 29.

An immediate problem concerns materials for the job now being delivered to the job site. Also, the elevator itself will soon be delivered, J.R. Wilson, Barier president, said in a letter to the village board.

"Brick to match the existing building has been ordered, miscellaneous structural steel fabricated, and hardware will soon be delivered. Floor covering, electrical waterproofing and other materials have been ordered," he said.

Part of the payment money, about $6,181, also is due, the letter stated.

According to Village Clerk Mary Warren, Barier said it would (See ELEVATOR, Page 8A)

National Steel suit settled; family to receive $7.5 million

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The family of a 29-year-old former electrical worker whose skull was crushed by a crane last year while working at Granite City Steel will receive a $7.5 million settlement as a result of the accident.

The worker survived the accident.

The family of William R. Chaney, represented by Belleville attorney Amiel Cueto, settled the personal injury lawsuit with National Steel Corp., the parent company of Granite City Steel, Sept. 24 after a week of testimony in Madison County Circuit Court.

Chaney, of rural Edwardsville, was employed by Guarantee Electrical Co. at the time of the accident.

He was leaning over a platform, lowering an extension ladder to the ground by a rope on Feb. 16, 1990, when he was struck on the head by a crane at the cold roll mill.

He was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and immediately flown by helicopter to St. Louis University Medical Center for emergency surgery.

Chaney was in a coma for three months following the incident. According to Cueto, Chaney lost 15 percent of his brain in the accident and subsequent surgery. He said Chaney is paralyzed, has no vision in one eye, is unable to communicate verbally and requires 24-hours-a-day care.

"He can say 'yes' or 'no,' but the answer is not appropriate to the question," Cueto said. "For example, if you ask him if he is (See SUIT, Page 8A)

Salvation Army office burglarized

Some needy family will probably have to go without heat in its home this winter as a result of a burglary at The Salvation Army on Sunday night.

Maxine Rutter, administrative assistant at the Granite City Salvation Army, 3007 East 23rd St., told police that the agency was burglarized between 10 p.m. Sunday and 6:30 a.m. Monday.

According to Salvation Army Capt. Curtis Hartley, the burglar made off with an undetermined amount of cash, taken from a safe in his office and from a bucket in Rutter's office; two audio speakers worth $300 each, taken from a chapel in the southwest end of the building; and an unknown number of checks.

The rear door of the building, office doors and the door to the safe had been pried open. All desks in the office were ransacked.

"I can't imagine the size of the crowbar used to pry open the heavy metal (back) door, but it was mangled. It will have to be replaced," Hartley said. (See BURGLARY, Page 8A)

Alton's 1st winnings from Belle — $118,000

Gambling revenues on the Alton Belle dipped last week, but the floating casino remains ahead of the game for its annual projections.

And in a related development, the financially struggling Alton city government will soon be getting its first cut from riverboat gambling, a check for about $118,000.

For the latest one-week period ending 6 a.m. Sunday, the Alton Belle had more gamblers on board, but they didn't lose as much as passengers the previous week.

A total of 14,328 boarded the Belle and the house came out $599,646 ahead last week, compared with 14,047 passengers who lost a net $719,828 the prior week, the state Gaming Board revealed Monday.

The average loss per passenger also dropped last week to $42, down from $31 the previous week. To date, the average loss per passenger is $47. The Belle started cruises the evening of Sept. 10.

The Alton betting boat is 'still ahead of its projected first-year betting revenues of $21 million, however. For the first 26 days of operation, total gambling revenues were at $2,181,151. At that rate, passengers will lose $30.5 million in the first year. A total of 46,531 passengers had walked the Belle's gangway through 6 a.m. Sunday.

The state's 15 percent tax on gambling losses and its $1 per passenger cut from the Belle's operation last week was $104,275, bringing its total since betting started to $373,704 as of Sunday morning.

Belle bettors contributed $44,310 last week to city coffers from its 5 percent tax share and $1 a passenger head tax; the city's total take through Sunday morning was $155,589.

Gaming Board fiscal officer Tom Hutchinson said Monday he had just authorized the September tax payment check to Alton for about $118,000.

Alton also gets 20 cents for every Belle passenger directly from the boat's owner, the Alton Riverboat Gambling Partnership.

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Granite City Steel announced Monday that it plans to close its cold roll finishing department sometime after the first of the year.

"We're just getting out of the cold-roll finishing business," Bob Maxwell, GC Steel manager for public relations said.

Maxwell said the department, which includes annealing, a temper mill, a leveler, and a shipping floor, employs about 60 people.

He said the decision to shut down is not yet final, but if it does happen, other jobs for the employees will be found within Granite City Steel.

The 51st annual meeting of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Oct. 3 included installation of Ben Johannpeter of Granite City Steel as president and presentation of the annual community service award to Bill Winter of the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

Johannpeter succeeded John E. Lee III as chamber president. Other new officers for the 1991-92 year are Paul Raczewicz, first vice president; Jim Seiz, second vice president; and Greg Mathes, treasurer.

Winter is in his 47th year at the Granite City newspaper, where he has served as the editor and now is a copy editor.

Don Garrett, 19, of the 1000 block of Douglas Street, Venice, pleaded guilty Monday to second-degree murder in the shooting death of a St. Louis man outside a package liquor store earlier this year.

Garrett was indicted April 11 by a Madison County grand jury on charges of first-degree murder, attempted first-degree murder and aggravated battery in the Feb. 25 shooting death of Ronald Roberts, 28, of St. Louis.

The first-degree murder charge was reduced and the additional charges were dropped.

Kevin Clay Garrett, 34, of Venice was sentenced to 10 years in a state prison Friday on an attempted murder charge stemming from a 1987 shoot-out with Venice and Madison police.

Garrett was charged with the attempted murder of Madison police officer Richard Balley and former Venice police officer Dan McKinney on March 10, 1987 — the day after he fired on the officers in a lot behind Curly's Diner, 1018 Broadway, Venice.

Pfizer Inc., an East St. Louis paint and chemical company, has agreed to pay a $1.5 million settlement to the victims whose homes were flooded in October 1986 when the Metro East Sanitary District's East St. Louis pump station failed.

About 44 acres in East St. Louis and Sauget were covered with water and raw sewage in the incident, which the Federal Emergency Management Agency estimated caused between $20 million and $30 million in damages to more than 1,500 homes and businesses.

Paul Hawkins, 64, who served as the county's building, zoning and environmental control administrator for nearly 25 years, died at 4:10 p.m. Sunday in an Alton hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Hawkins, who lived in Godfrey, had held his post since 1967.

The number of drug overdose deaths in the state nearly tripled from 1980 to 1989, a look at accidental death figures indicates. The deaths account for the bulk of accidental poisonings recorded by the Illinois Department of Public Health during the 10-year period.

By comparison, all other types of accidental poisonings, including such things as carbon monoxide suffocation or ingestion of cleaning fluids, remain stable.

A Pennsylvania food supplier filed suit Thursday against Collinsville businessman Gary Fears, seeking more than $256,000 the company claims it is owed for "foodstuffs and other items."

The suit was filed in Madison County by Monarch/Sky Bros., a division of JP Food Service, based in Altoona, Pa.

The suit seeks $256,540 from Fears and four business affiliates, Dinner House Management, Steak House Acquisitions, G&V Inc., and Budget Steakhouse Partners. The suit claims that payment has been demanded but refused.

Three large fires, one in Lincoln Place, one in West Granite and one downtown, kept firefighters busy over the weekend.

The first blaze, at Sammy's Tavern, 921 Niedringhaus Ave., began at 4:55 a.m. Saturday. Capt. Kip Pomeroy of the Police Department said the fire was accidental, and electrical in nature. A recently installed alarm system may have been the cause of the blaze, Pomeroy said.

Damage was estimated at between $60,000 and $100,000.

An apartment building at 3120-22 West 20th St. was the site of the second fire, occurring at 6:18 a.m. Sunday. Firefighters told police officers that 22-caliber shells were found scattered about the building, and the blaze had three points of ignition. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Firefighters were still looking into the cause of the West Granite fire when a call came in reporting a fire at 1710 Cleveland Blvd. at 9:15 a.m. Sunday.

According to Chief Jerry Wallace, the source of the fire was a unit heater which was turned on with combustible material nearby. Damage to the building, owned by Charlie Stone, was estimated at $15,000.

Police log

Granite City

Charges against woman

Geraldine Wiley, 36, of Garcesse Homes in Madison was arrested on the parking lot of the Granite City Shop 'N Save at 3:10 p.m. Oct. 3 and charged with retail theft, battery and resisting a peace officer.

According to an employee of the store, Wiley purchased an item from the deli, walked to an area where customers bag groceries, and sat down. Several minutes later, it was alleged, Wiley yelled something to a five-year-old boy, who then pushed a full shopping cart through the checkout lane and to Wiley.

Wiley bagged the groceries and left the store, allegedly without paying.

She was confronted by a police officer on the parking lot, where she pointed at the boy, saying, "He did it; he did it," according to a police report.

The officer arrested Wiley, who allegedly struck the arresting officer in the chest. The report notes that Wiley may have a hearing impairment, but that all commands were given to her while she was looking directly at the officer.

The groceries were valued at $155.50. A computer-check showed Wiley was also wanted for failure to appear on a previous charge of resisting a peace officer. She was held pending $508 cash bail.

Battery warrant arrest

Bruce W. Huelsman, 44, of the 11111 Motel, 1100 Niedringhaus Ave., was arrested there at 10:10 a.m. Oct. 3 on a St. Clair County warrant charging him with battery.

Arrest on drug charge

Karen L. Schaffrin, also known as Christine Olsen, 30, of St. Ann, Mo., was arrested in the 3200 block of Wayne Avenue at 1 p.m. Oct. 6 on a St. Louis County warrant alleging she possessed "dangerous drugs." She was held pending extradition.

Two warrants served

Billy Joe Merchant, 19, of Kaseberg Lane was arrested at 3:03 a.m. Oct. 6 on a Madison County warrant charging him with attempted burglary as a probation violation and a Clinton County warrant for unlawful consumption of alcohol.

An officer effected a routine traffic stop on a black 1979 AMC Javelin on Namooki Road, recognized Merchant, and arrested him.

He was transferred to the Madison County Jail.

Driving charge filed

Wayne R. Getta, 33, of the 1100 block of 22nd Street was arrested at 11 p.m. Oct. 4 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

An officer reported observing a red 1986 Chevrolet pickup truck cross the intersection of Iowa Street at 23rd Street at a high speed and then spin around and come to a halt facing in the opposite direction.

Getta was stopped at 22nd Street and Iowa streets, interrogated and charged.

He was released after posting his driver's license as bail.

Arrested near school

Cindy A. Turner, 32, of the 2800 block of Iowa Street was arrested at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 4 and charged with resisting arrest, battery and disorderly conduct following an incident at Niedringhaus School.

School Principal Ellen Voyles told police Turner entered the building before the end of classes on Friday afternoon and walked the halls in search of her six-year-old son. When Voyles suggested Turner report to the office while she (Voyles) located him, Turner allegedly cursed and refused to cooperate.

Turner took her son and left the school. She was confronted on the Wilson Park Ice Rink parking lot by a police officer.

Turner allegedly swore at the officer, pounded on and kicked the windows and doors of the police car when placed inside, and threatened the officer and his family.

Turner is further alleged to have spit on, scratched and punched the officer after arriving at the station.

Turner was charged and lodged.

The boy was left in the custody of a relative.

Convicted rapist gets 26-year sentence

A 26-year-old Venice man, currently serving a life sentence in an Iowa prison, received a seven-year sentence in Madison County for the 1989 rape of a Carbondale woman.

William S. Edward of the 1300 block of Klein Street was sentenced Monday at Edwardsville by Chief Criminal Court Judge Edward Ferguson based on plea negotiations.

Edward was charged with the July 5, 1989, rape of a 24-year-old Carbondale woman on a dead end street two miles east of Illinois 203.

According to reports, Edward was working as a security guard in a downtown St. Louis parking garage when he offered the victim and a male companion a ride to Carbondale.

After the man and woman waited several hours for Edward to get off work, he drove the two to his brother's Venice home. Edward's brother returned to the parking garage with the victim's companion began picking up cans at the garage while Edward drove to buy food. The victim was asleep in the back seat at the time, reports said.

Edward reportedly woke the victim after driving to a deserted road next to a cornfield about two miles east of Illinois 203 and then raped her.

Madison County officials were granted temporary custody of Edward in August from Woodbury County, Iowa, authorities.

Edward is serving a life plus 10-year prison sentence without the chance of parole at the Iowa Men's Reformatory on a 1989 murder charge.

Reservists are heading for home

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

They're coming home soon for sure, maybe. The Army Reserve 892nd Transportation Command is now tentatively scheduled to leave Dharan, Saudi Arabia, Oct. 14, which will bring them to Belleville about Oct. 21, said Michelle Gloodt, chairman of the family support meetings in Belleville for the 892nd.

"We won't believe it until they leave Dharan," Gloodt said. The 892nd will go to Fort McCoy, Wis., to be processed back into reserve status, Gloodt said.

That processing could take three to six days, she added. "What's really funny is you don't see the families getting overly giddy, because things could change," Gloodt said. Things have changed. The unit was scheduled to return later in October, and now the date has been moved up.

But earlier in the summer, Gloodt said, she received a letter saying the unit would be coming home Aug. 17. The letter was postmarked Aug. 25.

"We're still trying to find out how that letter got sent, and who sent it," Gloodt said.

She said the activation has been tough for the families because this was the first time the 892nd was called to active duty.

Some women wanted to know why the regular Army couldn't take over so their husbands could come home.

"We'll give them a nice, loving welcome home when they get back to Belleville," Gloodt said. A welcome home parade on Nov. 3 is being planned for the 892nd, the 458th Transportation Detachment Army Reserve, and several other units that missed a parade in June for military personnel who were sent to the Middle East during Desert Storm.

Two Granite City men who are members of the 892nd already are home from Saudi Arabia.

Capt. Larry T. Birkner arrived home two weeks ago and Sgt. Roger Crites came home July 23. Two other Granite City reservists in the same unit are Staff Sgt. Thomas W. Rippee and Sgt. Glen Grieve.

Thirteen members of the 458th arrived at Fort Campbell, Ky., Friday, Oct. 4, and were released for the weekend to be with their families. The members returned to Fort Campbell to complete demobilization.

Co-sponsor of the programs is the Illinois Job Service Employers' Committee.

A panel of experts, including architects, engineers and local employers, will explain what employers, including smaller firms, can do to comply with the law's two major provisions — employment and public accommodation. Employers will also share their experiences in hiring the disabled.

2 Corinthians 6:16 ... "I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

The wisdom of God is unsearchable. He truly is in control of all His creation. As He administers His power throughout the universe He still ministers to mankind personally. Think of that! God will be our God, and we shall be His children. He can talk to us. Bless us. Challenge us. Our religious organizations, our churches, our traditions, can neither give God to us nor take God away from us.

Do not misunderstand me. We need our organizations, and we need our churches. They help us and we help them. However, God dwells in His people. He wants to dwell in you.

Why not take time now to pray. Ask Him to touch your heart, your life and be ready to experience His presence.

Your Heavenly Father says ask, and it shall be given. Why not do it today?

Venice chief will star at family reading day

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Venice Police Chief James R. Bennett was busy Wednesday. He was looking for a book — "The Little Engine That Could."

Bennett will be the first "celebrity reader" for the Great Expectations Family Reading Day at the Venice Public Library and the "Little Engine" is one book that he particularly wants to read to the children.

The Great Expectations Family Reading Day program will take place at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, and is open to all youngsters.

He (Bennett) seems very excited about it," said Cynthia Crawford, a member of the Venice Library Board.

Bennett has a good rapport with young children, having served as the Venice Police Department's juvenile officer for 12 years. He is the father of three, Delia, 12, Jimmy, 24, and Sonya, 25.

"Delia has about 100 books but most are the educational kind, based on facts," the chief said.

The Venice, Madison and Granite City public libraries did not happen to have the "Little Engine" book available.

"I'm going to do it, but I can't get the books I want to read," he said Wednesday.

Bennett managed to borrow Dr. Seuss' "Green Eggs and Ham" from the Madison Public Library and he plans to read "Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day."

"I like to read stories that not only are entertaining but have a moral behind them," he said.

While the children listen to a selection of stories read by Bennett, their parents may talk with librarians for tips on how to choose books for their children and encourage them to love reading.

Families will sign a Great Expectations Family Reading pledge card promising to set aside time each week to read together. The goal of the reading day is to encourage children to read through parental and family involvement.

When families have met their reading pledge for four weeks they can bring their pledge cards to an area McDonald's Restaurant for a free prize.

Bennett has introduced some novel approaches to working with children since taking over as department head in June. He will have been on the force for 21 years in November.

"Most of the little kids like me. I have a pretty good rapport with the younger kids and I talk to them all over town. They all listen," he said.

"I've told the officers in the housing projects that when the young kids keep asking for a ride in a police car to go ahead and give them a ride."

James R. Bennett
... celebrity reader

"We're still working in the housing areas, but we are down to a one-man operation," the chief said.

"Ice Cream Night" was a successful police-community relations idea instituted by Bennett during the summer months.

"We told all the kids in the projects that if they didn't create problems in their buildings, such as running in the hallways and not going inside or whatever after the 10 p.m. curfew time, we would take them for ice cream each week."

"Come Friday, we'd load them into four squad cars and take them all down to John's Drive-In for ice cream. The kids ranged from five, six and seven years old up to 12 and 13 years old."

"We had to stop the trips when a moving van hit John's Drive-In and (the drive-in) had to close. But he's rebuilding now," Bennett said.

The Family Reading Day is a two-year educational project of KTVI Channel 2, co-sponsored by Schnucks and McDonald's Restaurants.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Generally speaking, persons injured as a result of medical malpractice have two years to bring an action against the negligent physician. Illinois law provides that the two-year limitation period starts to run on the date "on which the claimant knew, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have known, of the existence of the injury..." The question sometimes arises as to how much information must be available to an injured person in order to trigger the running of the two-year limitation period. Obviously, not all medical malpractice is immediately ascertainable following a negligent diagnosis or treatment.

In one recent case, a woman consulted a gynecologist due to recurrent pain in her left ovary. In December of 1973, the doctor performed surgery and removed her uterus. In July of 1980, the physician performed additional surgery to remove scar tissue. The woman had previously indicated to the gynecologist that she felt the left ovary was the source of the recurring pain. Several physicians had indicated to the plaintiff in earlier years that the ovary would ultimately have to be removed. She indicated this to the gynecologist, but he refused to remove the left ovary. The pain worsened after the second surgery, and the plaintiff consulted another physician in October of 1980. A surgeon removed both ovaries on January 23, 1981. In the summer of 1982, the woman consulted an attorney regarding a possible medical malpractice claim against the original gynecologist.

The attorney requested a medical opinion from the second physician who had been contacted in October of 1980. This doctor indicated that he saw no impropriety in the prior treatment by the original gynecologist. Because of this opinion, the plaintiff felt she had no basis for a malpractice suit and delayed filing the medical malpractice action until November 28, 1983.

The question arose as to whether the woman filed the case within two years of the time she knew of the injury. The Court concluded that the plaintiff should have known she had been injured by the doctor's negligent treatment by late January or early February of 1981. The Court emphasized that the woman had obtained the care of other physicians three years before she filed. She should have known the injury was "wrongfully caused" based on these consultations. Therefore, it was held that the case was not filed within the two-year period, thus disposing of this matter in the doctor's favor.

Good doesn't outweigh bad

Granite City Steel said that the 60 or so jobs that are lost by closing the cold roll finishing department will be covered by attrition, so it's really nothing to worry about.

That may look like good news — nobody working there will end up on the street — but the closing is bad news for the community. It means there will be 60 less opportunities for area youths to earn a good living and 60 less chances for area people to support their families. It means that 60 more heavy-industry workers will have to choose between under-employment here or moving to another area.

If we believe economists — they have been wrong often enough that maybe we shouldn't — each heavy manufacturing job creates several service industry jobs. Based on that, after the cold roll finishing department closes, this area will need between 180 and 300 less people working at banks, grocery stores, department stores, discount stores, gas stations, newspapers, fast food and other restaurants, and so on and so on.

If this is true, bleak, grim doom and gloom do not seem to be out of line as descriptions of the area's future. Even if it's not true, there can be no doubt that a future based on all of us selling hamburgers to each other, even if we're earning above minimum wage, is not exactly bright.

The loss of heavy manufacturing jobs is more than a local problem. Many U.S.-based multinational corporations have said they have been forced, by high labor costs, to move their heavy manufacturing jobs out of the United States in order to remain competitive in the American market.

That, said U.S. Rep. Bill Clay, D-St. Louis, is just an excuse. Clay is quick to point out that manufacturers in nine other countries where workers earn more per hour than workers in the United States have no problem competing in the American market.

In a speech this week before the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Clay said one of those nine countries, Japan, makes television sets, radios and video cassette recorders — "things people want" — and asked, "How many people own B-Z bombers?"

Even if it's covered by attrition, the loss of 60 jobs at Granite City Steel is a big deal. There may be no way to stop this particular loss, but it shouldn't be glossed over, shrugged off and forgotten.

Every candidate for every public office from precinct committeeman to president should be reminded of those 60 jobs and asked, "What are you going to do to stop it in the future?"

Look at school candidates

There will be 11 candidates in the November election for three positions on the Granite City school board.

The new board will be facing a number of important issues, including deciding whether to build a new high school or rehabilitate the current one. Voters in the Granite City School District owe it to themselves to study and make good use of the wide range of candidates.

Preserving dignity in last days of life

Joint statement by state medical, legal and hospital spokesmen: Advances of modern medical technology allow today's physicians and hospitals to save the lives of infants born two or even three months prematurely; bring back to the edge of death the victims of fire, auto accidents, gunshot wounds and airline crashes; and restore to health patients who have suffered heart attacks and strokes that only 20 years ago would surely have been fatal.

These same technological advances, however, can create challenges for patients and their families as they come to grips with decisions concerning medical intervention at the end of life.

Current Illinois law requires physicians to follow the wishes of those patients who sign advance directives. The "Illinois Living Will" allows people to describe how they wish to be cared for at the end of their life and the "Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care" permits individuals to assign the right to make health care decisions to a family member or close friend with whom the patient has discussed these sensitive and difficult issues. Both documents apply in certain carefully described circumstances in which patients are unable to make these important decisions themselves or are unable to verbalize their wishes.

For people who have not signed such documents, however, families and hospitals are now required to endure a painful and lengthy court process, should the ability of modern technology collide with the wishes of a patient or patient's family to forgo extraordinary treatment.

In situations involving the removal of life-sustaining treatment, the Illinois Supreme Court recently ruled that an incompetent patient's wishes must be determined by a court of law, based on clear and convincing evidence. The court further called upon the Illinois General Assembly to address this issue legislatively.

The Health Care Surrogate Act, House Bill 2334, fulfills the Illinois Supreme Court's directive to take such matters out of the judicial system and calls for a fair and protective path of action for patients, surrogates and health care workers. The legislation submitted to the governor for his signature fills a troublesome gap in the law for patients and their families in Illinois.

Supported by a coalition of health care providers, attorneys and spiritual counselors, the bill makes clear who may make decisions about life-sustaining treatment when a patient is unable to do so. It establishes a prioritized list of surrogates that allows those closest to the patient to give direction to health care providers and make decisions regarding the last stages of life.

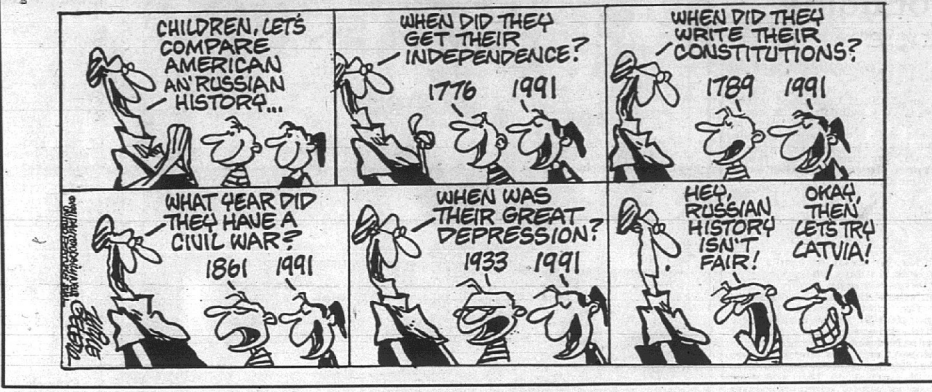

Sensitive decisions such as these do not belong in the courts; they belong in the hands and hearts of the surrogate decision-maker, a family member or friend who will make decisions based on his or her knowledge of the patient's wishes.

That surrogate may, in the name of the patient's best interests, order further extensive life-sustaining treatment. The surrogate can direct that all possible life-saving measures be taken in any and every instance where that approach is based on the surrogate's knowledge of the patient and the patient's desires, any action on the entire spectrum of available care is allowed.

The Health Care Surrogate Act will take those difficult and private decisions out of the court and put them back where they belong: in the realm of the family and the conscience.

House Bill 2334 allows each of us to bequeath to our families a most precious legacy: dignity in the last days and hours of our life, and peace of mind in the years that follow for those we leave behind.

Ways to avoid wasting taxes

TO THE EDITOR: Belleville Area College employs many dedicated, hard-working people. However, there are a number of people who insist upon operating at an unacceptable level.

The board and administration not only choose to ignore the seriousness of their transgressions, but fiercely defend their activity. The prevailing attitude seems to be: publicize the good and cover up the bad.

Within the last few years there have been several activities which should not have been tolerated. Some have been very costly to the taxpayers.

Two events in the last six weeks have reinforced my frustration at attempting to correct some of the improprieties.

Last month the college hired a junior insurance salesman at $100 an hour over my strong objections, to design an alternate health insurance plan for the employees of the college.

I requested a copy of the new plan. To my amazement, it was not a new design. It was simply a duplication of the existing plan. The salesman designed nothing. As usual, the activity was defended, and the taxpayers are out a couple of thousand dollars.

Also, last month at a closed session, I was trying, unsuccessfully, to place some safeguards in a program to prevent the possibility of undeserving enrichment.

Obviously bored by my insistence, one administrator spoke up and said that he did not care if a certain individual received a kickback. I was the only one who was upset over this remark.

Besides a lapse in ethics, the administrator again demonstrated his lack of concern for tax dollars.

The college does so many things right, why not also demonstrate intolerance to unacceptable conduct?

It is the only way we are ever going to get the overwhelming confidence of the taxpayers.

City ignoring voters' wishes

TO THE EDITOR: Aldermen and alderwomen, we the people of Precinct 11, Ward 3, watched the council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 3, when Alderman Skubish got up and tried to put things right by getting the trash back to the alleys (instead of curbside pickup).

Whitaker, Miller and Worthen jumped right up and blocked Mr. Skubish. Why?

Whitaker, Miller and Worthen, these are not your wards. Why don't you take care of your own?

You are downgrading our property instead of improving it. Whitaker had already laid it on us that we can't burn leaves this year. We did last year; now we have to bag them up and take them to a certain place at a certain time.

When you can't walk or drive, who is going to do this? You, Mr. Whitaker? I doubt it.

Miller claims this trash pickup in front is a package deal with us getting a little park where Webster School was. It's a funny thing that it's right across the street from Alderman Fisk's house, who just happened to be for trash pickup in front.

Worthen then voiced his views: this is really calling a kettle black. He lives in another ward but he owns a house in the 2100 block of Edwards Street. The trash there has not been taken out in front for two months; it is piled in the garage and in the alley. An old car is in the garage with beer cans all over it. You call this cleanup?

The city needs money. Well, like was sent here, fire the people who don't keep their property clean. Why punish the people who do?

We took a ride in Ward 3 this morning. A TV was laying in the alley in the 2400 block of Washington. Needs higher than the fence, trash on the streets and alleys and trash in the alleys and streets of Edwards. Where will be next?

Granite City is a steel town, so it's bound to be dirty. But, if you haven't heard, Granite City Steel is talking about closing their plant in January. Who will you dictate to then?

For, then the people will be gone, too. So, let's get things in order and listen to your voters.

Need coverage of band drive

TO THE EDITOR: The last few weeks, Warriors soccer, football and golf teams have had good press releases, pictures and headlines and good articles. The Sept. 22 issue of the Press-Record/Journal included a whole page of related pictures.

However, to read of Warrior band competition in Maryville, you must go to a neighborhood news column for a two-paragraph item. There were not any pictures or individual names, and not much of anything. Yet, we all enjoy the marching band at football games.

Who is to blame for such poor press relations? The Press-Record/Journal, the Maryville Press of the High School? Who decides that the band, their leaders, the individual students are second class?

Certainly, I'm not the only one who appreciates or recognizes their talent, their dedication and their long hours of practice.

What of their $80,000 goal? How much have they earned? Can't you publish the events that are planned to meet their goal? Give them some publicity to help and encourage.

I have three sons who were 3-4 letterman in two sports, but let's spread the Warriors pride to the band also.

School area guards needed

TO THE EDITOR: I am worried about this school crossing guard problem.

I don't want to imply that I know the answer to the problem. But somebody needs to come up with the answer before some student is hurt or worse.

For example, last semester on Maryville Road in front of Maryville School, I saw the crossing guard stand in the middle of the street (her stop sign held high) and the student following her.

With a small pickup truck coming, not too fast, she realized the pickup truck wasn't going to stop. So she held her arm to stop the student just as the pickup truck zoomed by, missing them by inches.

The student wouldn't have guessed the truck wasn't going to stop because he ran into her arm. Thank God, she was there and alert.

She earned her salary for the whole year that one time. At least, I think she did. I believe that the School Board should inform Mr. Wamsley to send an envelope home with each parent, once a month, for a donation from the parents for this expense (hiring of guards).

I am sure the parents would donate to this cause.

Little guys can get things done

TO THE EDITOR: They say that the little guys don't have a say in "big government" anymore. That to get something done takes big bucks in the form of campaign contributions.

This may be true in other states but in Illinois the state Legislature still cares about what the common citizen has to say.

In August 1990 my husband and I became disturbed when we discovered that it was not illegal in Illinois for a criminal to wear a bulletproof vest while committing a crime. So we contacted our state representative, Monroe L. Flink, and asked him to take the lead in getting such legislation enacted. He happily said yes.

Many people tried to discourage us, saying that such legislation would take years to enact. But we persisted. Help came from many quarters.

St. Clair County Sheriff Mearl Justus and the Illinois Sheriff's Association, the Illinois Fraternal Order of Police, the Illinois Police Association, the Policemen's Benevolent and Protective Association of Illinois and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees all offered their support and encouragement.

And when it came time for the final push through the House and into the Senate, Rep. Jay Hoffman was there to insure that our bill made it over all of its legislative hurdles.

Finally, on Sept. 15, Gov. Edgar signed House Bill 840 and it became unlawful to wear a bulletproof vest while committing a crime using a deadly weapon.

Now this might not sound like much, but it demonstrates that at least here in Illinois we still have "old fashioned" politicians who are committed to helping their constituents. Our thanks go out to them not only for their assistance in getting this legislation passed but in proving to us that the little guys can still get things done in Illinois.

Protect cars' precious cargo

TO THE EDITOR: In 1990, 2,331 children died in the United States as a result of motor vehicle crashes.

This statistic is simply unacceptable, considering the laws requiring use of child restraint seats and safety belts.

Traffic safety is one of my most important duties as secretary of state, and I believe that ensuring the safety of our young passengers is a grave responsibility.

Fining a driver $25 for violating the Illinois child restraint law of 1985 can be effective in encouraging the use of child seats. However, I believe that prevention rather than punishment will be a more effective way of protecting our innocent young passengers on Illinois roads.

"Operation Precious Cargo" is an innovative year-long program designed to protect children and reduce the number of child deaths and injuries by encouraging the use of child seats. The program will provide all squad cars with a child restraint seat.

A one-time grant of $7,500 from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has allowed the police departments and sheriff's offices to provide all squad cars with a child restraint seat.

An officer observing a violation will not only issue a child restraint seat to the driver for 30 days, but also take the driver how to secure the child in the seat. At the end of the loan period, the violator must return the seat to the nearest Driver Safety facility.

I want to encourage Illinois drivers to think about the safety of their children before loading them into the car. Our children are our most precious cargo, and they deserve to be transported safely and securely.

SOME OUT-OF-TOWN SPECIALS ARE REALLY NO BARGAIN

The next time you're tempted to travel to the city or out of town shopping mall, stop and think of the real cost. Be sure to add mileage, cost of meals, babysitter expenses, time and other incidentals.

Money experts say that each dollar will turn over as many as four or five times in a community like ours, which means that a dollar spent somewhere else will take away $4 or $5 in trade, wages, local taxes, etc. Our friendly merchants at home probably have just what you want anyway and often cheaper than stores in the city. Shopping at home is easier and quicker, and you won't have to spend $78 for a shirt.

instead use a portion of the funds for a cosmetic cleanup and security of the area.

Workers at the site Wednesday fixed gates, reinforced sagging fences, boarded up broken windows on buildings and patched holes as large as two feet by two feet in fences.

But IEPA community relations coordinator Virginia Wood has explained that the agency is concerned with cleaning up contaminants rather than beautification of the area.

The 26-acre site was identified in 1983 as having become contaminated. It had been in operation as a wood treatment facility, utilizing creosote pentachlorophenol (PCP) since 1915.

Mayfield Heights, Ohio-based Jensen-Wright filed for bankruptcy in November 1989.

It ceased operations at the local facility in July 1990, leaving contaminated soil, sludge and groundwater as well as operational debris and deteriorating buildings.

Although Jensen-Wright obtained a razing permit from the city in October 1990, and began work on removing some hazardous materials and dilapidated structures from the site, that work soon halted.

Buildings in poor condition, creosote puddles, lumber, barrels, metal parts, tank cars and storage tanks all still remain at the location, and there isn't much that frustrated city officials on the site must be done by a licensed hazardous-waste hauler, with IEPA's permission.

City officials say such work would simply be too expensive for the city to fund.

•Map

effect on my political clout."

Also under the Republican map is a new 110th District with a vacant seat. That district would contain Troy, the home of former Republican Rep. Ron Stevens, who was defeated by Hoffman in the last election.

"It's an inviting prospect," Stephens said Monday of running again. "I'm giving it every consideration."

In addition to "those five districts, parts of Madison County are also in two other House districts."

In the Senate districts, Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, would lose Madison and Venice to Sen. Ken Hall, D-East St. Louis. Vadalabene would pick up parts of Collinsville and Caseyville from Sen. Frank Watson, R-Carlyle.

Madison County Democratic Chairman John Belfco of Madison said he had not yet obtained a map of the new districts.

"I haven't been able to look at it and try to make sense of it," Belfco said. "I don't know what ramifications it will have on the Democratic Party in the county."

Wolf said the map still has to be approved by the courts and, "I hope to see Christ. It doesn't stand up."

"There is no way they should be allowed to carve the county up the way they've done. I think it's terrible."

Watson, a member of the redistricting committee, said he was pleased with the outcome but said Monday that he regrets losing Collinsville and Caseyville.

Despite accusations from Democrats that the new 110th District was created solely for the purpose of electing Stephens, Watson says the redistricting is merely a reflection of population changes.

Majority Leader McPike, a member of the redistricting commission and an opponent of the new map, which pits 28 incumbent Democrats against each other, said it has numerous examples of "political unfairness" and complained the Republicans had not included the Democratic members of the commission in the decision-making process.

The initial redistricting committee of four Republicans and four Democrats received its fifth Republican member in a tie-breaking draw Sept. 5.

After approval by the Republican members, the map was sent to the courts to see if it meets standards of the federal Voting Rights Act and, Wolf said, the map has already been challenged by Democrats in the state courts.

"I just don't think there's going to be much to come of it," Watson said Monday. "I just don't think there's going to be a case for the suit."

If the map receives court approval, it will then be filed with the secretary of state and the state election board, where it will be certified for elections, he said.

Aside from the complaint that the map violates the Voting Rights Act, the Democratic members claim the map is unfair to blacks, women, Jews, Democrats and some Republicans.

Watson disputed this claim Monday, saying the accusations didn't "hold water." Instead, the map offers more districts for blacks and Hispanics than the Democratic narrative that was vetoed by Republican Gov. Jim Edgar, Watson said.

District lines drawn in the northern part of the state that affect Jewish legislators followed the recommendations of the Illinois Jewish Federation, Watson said.

Several women's groups protested the new map Friday, saying it put some women House and Senate members in districts with incumbents.

But even though these women could be defeated in the next election, Watson believes a greater number of women are interested in running for both House and Senate seats for the first time.

"There are more women throughout the state that are more interested in running than ever before," Watson said. "Women certainly weren't singled out," he said of the new map.

Watson said the result will be that the agency will have less money to use to help the needy this year.

"Those contributions allow us to pay people's utility bills in the winter, for example, and that money just won't be there," he said. "We'll just work with the funds we have and do our best."

Watson said the part of the Granite City Police department said the burglary appeared to be the work of juveniles, and an investigation is continuing.

In the meantime, the door is being chained shut.

Hartley said the missing cash had been collected Sunday from regular Sunday morning and evening church contributors, and was earmarked for the operations of the church.

"But we'll still have to pay the bills for the operations of the church," Hartley said.

Fund drive set

More than 5,000 Illinois Knights of Columbus, their families and volunteers will be blanketing highway intersections, depots, and shopping centers the weekend of Oct. 25-26 in hopes of raising $1.7 million for their annual Mentally Retarded Drive.

Volunteers interested in collecting donations should call the state office, at 815-935-2262.

cost an additional $18,000 to rectify the situation by driving pits and installing pumps in the elevator pit area.

Plans for the elevator called for its installation on the east wall of the Village Hall, accessing from the rear parking area to the basement level.

Narrow stairs that turn sharply part-way down remain the only public access available to reach the lower floor.

Whatever solution to the problem is decided, it will cost an additional $18,000 plus what collecting donations should call the state office, at 815-935-2262.

Community Development officials have said the contract is with the village, not the agency, Warren noted.

"I believe we have to get outside counsel on this," said Trustee Loren Madison.

Trustee Marvin Ribbing supported Madison's statement, adding, "We also have to get moving on this."

A move to retain an attorney to look into the legalities of the contract was approved at Tuesday night's village meeting. The action was recommended by Village Attorney Keith Jensen.

Mayor Wilson was given authority to hire outside counsel for this purpose.

Trustee Louis Whitsell asked if the state's attorney's office had been contacted regarding the construction project.

"After all, it is Community Development funds involved. And, it is their (county) money," he said.

Mayor Glen Wilson agreed, saying, "We've had no luck at all reaching the state's attorney."

He said the settlement included a disclaimer of liability on the part of National Steel.

Brewer survives;
team falls shortBy Brian Henry
Correspondent

After such a sterling regular season, the next logical step for the Warrior golf team appeared to be a successful post-season. But Tuesday's Wood River Class AA Regional proved to be quite illogical.

Granite City, one of the top teams in the area last year, missed the cut for advancing to the sectional by placing fifth with a 340. Collinsville was the surprise of the day, taking fourth with a 337 (the top four teams advanced). Joe Brewer was the only Warrior to advance as an individual as he finished in a seven-way tie for fifth (officially, he got ninth) with an 81.

Brewer will compete in the sectional next Tuesday at Sunset Hills in Edwardsville, but Warriors

Dan McDonough of Oakville controls the ball as McCluer North's Brian Jones and Craig Foster (13) move in during a Tournament of Champions Group D game Tuesday. McCluer North won 3-1.

Golf regional

rrior coach Russ Chappell was hoping for a much larger representation.

"We picked a bad day to play badly," he said. "We shot 36 strokes worse than we did at The Legacy (where Granite City won the conference tournament last week). This course is not 36 strokes harder."

Belleville East won the sectional with a 325. Edwardsville (329) and O'Fallon (335) also advanced along with Collinsville. The Kahoks' Jason Reid won regional medalist honors with a 77. He beat East's Kyle Jackson in a playoff for the top spot.

The Warriors weren't strangers to Belk Park. They beat Edwardsville and Wood River there just a week ago with a 158 over nine holes. That would be 318 over 18 holes, which would have won the regional and been 24 strokes better than their score Tuesday.

"It was just a bad day," said Brewer. "We weren't overconfident. We just hit badly on the wrong day."

Also scoring for Granite City, but missing the cut, were Jon Duft (85), Bart Alston (87) and Gabe Mitchell (87). The top 15 individuals advanced.

"I'm happy with everything so far," said Brewer. "I wouldn't be too upset if I didn't advance out of the sectional. I wish we could have advanced, but we've had a real good year."

"Joe could do well at the sectional," said Chappell. "He manages the course well. There's only been one individual state qualifier in school history, so that gives him something to shoot for."

"I was totally shocked that Collinsville beat us. I thought O'Fallon would be fourth and we would be pushing East and Edwardsville. I think the kids had a feeling they would walk out there and win with one of the top spots."

"We thought we were out of the regional before we began," said Mitchell. "The conditions (See GOLF, Page 2B)

4 players get first goals;
sets up CBC showdownBy Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The stage is set. The CBC Cadets will have revenge on their minds, while the Warriors will be trying to advance to the Tournament of Champions semifinals for the third straight year in the final game of group play Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Granite City put itself into that spot with a 4-0 win over Eureka on Wednesday. The Warriors and Cadets are both 2-0 in Group A after CBC blanked Aquinas/Mercy 2-0 earlier Wednesday. CBC (6-7) has outscored its opponents 8-0 in two games, while the Warriors have a 6-0 goal advantage. So the Cadets need only a tie tomorrow while the Warriors (10-1-3) will have to win outright.

"I don't know if the kids even know about the goal differential thing," said Warrior coach Gene Baker. "They might be second-guessing me if they did. If the goals come, they come. But the Eureka goalie was outstanding. Eureka goalie Eric Lambert, a junior, was all over the place as the Warriors peppered the goal from the outset. He was credited with five saves.

"I've never seen so many second-effort saves right on the goal line," said Baker. "This is about as good as we've played. We weren't really putting the pressure on any more than normal in the fourth quarter. We were just playing very well."

With striker Eric Davis out of the lineup after getting a 17-stitch cut over his eye Monday, the Warriors looked elsewhere for offense. Four players responded with their first goals of the year.

Junior Jason Maxfield broke through at 3:34 and beat Lambert to a through pass from junior Dan Clark. Maxfield was tipped to start a diving Lambert and tapped it in.

"Jason is doing a job for us everywhere," said Baker. "We moved him up front tonight where he can break things open. He's our catalyst."

John Nizinski hit the post a few minutes later and Josh Houston missed two certain goals early in the second quarter. But junior David Partney took a centering pass from Curt Kessler at 33:25 and knocked one in off the leg of Eureka defender Tom Aletto.

Tim Henson picked up his fifth straight shutout, his sixth overall — and the Warriors' sixth straight — and made his best play early in the third quarter with a great

Post-season play fast approaching for fall sports

Sites, dates and teams for the IHSA fall sports post-season have been announced. Seedings for the soccer and volleyball playoffs will be announced after seeding meetings are held next week.

The top 192 teams (out of 550 total) in the state qualify in a six-class format based upon the enrollment of those teams. Conference champions qualify automatically as long as they have played at least eight games by the ninth week. All other teams with nine or eight wins will qualify.

If there are more schools at a given win level than spots to be filled, the criteria for selection will be 1) total wins of all opponents of School A; 2) total wins of all opponents beaten by School A; 3) total wins of all opponents who have beaten School A; 4) head-to-head competition; and 5) a coin flip or rolling of the peas (if 3 or more are tied).

Once the 192 teams have been selected on Nov. 2, they will be placed in order of their enrollment for the current school year or the average enrollment of their opponents, whichever is larger. The 32 largest will be assigned to the Class 6A playoffs and on down.

Pairings will be based on geography. First-round games will be Nov. 6; the second round is Nov. 9; quarterfinals are Nov. 16; semifinals are Nov. 23; and the six state championship games are Nov. 29-30 at Hancock Stadium in Normal.

There are 249 teams competing in 56 regionals (Oct. 24-29) and 14 sectionals (Oct. 31-Nov. 2). Seven super-sectionals (Nov. 5) and the Chicago Public League champion will meet in the state finals in St. Charles on Nov. 8-9.

Granite City is in the Collinsville Sectional along with Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, Cahokia, Carbondale, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Lutheran East, Highland, Lebanon, Mascoutah, Mt. Carmel, O'Fallon, Roxana, Triad, Wood River, Gibault, Waterloo and Wood River.

The teams will be seeded 1-20, with the top four seeds made the

No. 1 seed in each of four regionals. Regional games are played on the home field of the higher-seeded teams. Regional winners advance to Collinsville for the semifinals Oct. 31 and the finals Nov. 2. The sectional winner will meet the Springfield Sectional winner in the Granite City Super-Sectional on Nov. 5. The winner there advances to the state finals, with a quarterfinal game against the New Lenox (Lincoln-Way) Super-Sectional winner at 5:30 p.m. Nov. 8 at Norris Stadium in St. Charles.

In Class 6A, there are 230 teams in 56 regionals, 14 section-save on Darrin Sharp's blast from the left wing. Diminutive freshman Matt Little made it 3-0 with his first varsity goal at 53:39 off an assist from Houston, who worked his way in on the left wing. Lambert made the save, but Little was able to push the rebound in. Freshman Paulie Bucherich made lots of good work pay off at 61:18 as Andy Jenkins tipped a Kessler throw-in to the slot, where Bucherich made it 4-0.

Chad Toeniskoetter and Dave Kasproovich finished up in goal as the Warrior shutout streak reached 481 minutes. The Warriors, now unbeaten in the last 12 games, had a scary moment late in the third quarter when senior Mark McKechan was undercut by Dennis Winter. McKechan went way into the air and landed on the back of his neck. He had some ice on it afterwards.

"There was a little numbness," said Baker. "It was something to see. But it doesn't look to be too serious. Mark has played about eight great games in a row now. Timmy took a knock on his leg, too, so we'll have to watch him."

"CBC will be bent on revenge, but we're playing better than we were then (a come-from-behind 2-1 win Sept. 19)."

The Warriors tied that one late on a penalty kick by Henson and won it in sudden death overtime on Josh Neidhardt's goal. That started a six-game losing streak for the Cadets, but they have come back strong this week.

"We're starting to put passes together," said Baker. "We got good play out of several freshmen tonight. We'll need a big effort tomorrow."

If they get it, the Warriors could very well be playing O'Fallon in the semifinals Saturday. The Panthers are having a good time in their first appearance in the tournament.

Art Voelgers's team got a fourth-quarter goal from Jason Turkington to beat St. Louis U. High 2-1 Wednesday and deny SLUH coach Ebbie Dunn his 571st career victory, which would tie him for the national record. O'Fallon (1-0-1 in the tournament) needs only a win over Smith/Cotton on Thursday to clinch the Group B title.

"I've always liked Art's teams," said Baker. "He keeps things upbeat, and they have the talent to go with it."

Chappell was concerned with the team peaking at the right time (regionals), but they peaked at the conference tournament instead. Brewer and Akop were the only seniors, so a solid nucleus will return next fall. Mitchell and Steve Rains are three-year starters, and Duff and Josh McLelland were pleasant surprises this year.

Life experiences helped Johnson, Griffith

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Don Johnson and Melanie Griffith can only hope their first movie together, "Paradise," in which they play a married couple besieged by a family tragedy, can generate the same kind of public interest as their real-life marriage.

Divorced once from each other and then remarried, Griffith, 34, and Johnson, 41, seem to be juggling two diverse acting careers with good success, even though Griffith's credits in motion pictures are established and respected, while Johnson still is looking for his first noteworthy film.

Griffith earned an Academy Award nomination and a Golden Globe Award for "Working Girl" in 1988. She has also appeared in successful films like "Body Double," "Something Wild," and "Pacific Heights."

Johnson was last seen in "Harley Davidson and The Marlboro Man" earlier this year. "Paradise," a film that Touchstone Pictures hopes finally will establish Johnson as a bankable motion picture star, takes the couple played by Johnson and Griffith on a two-week journey of rediscovery in their marriage. That journey is helped along by a 10-year-old boy named Willard, who comes to live with them.

"Willard is a not sure about my character of Ben," Johnson says. "He's not sure if Ben likes him or doesn't like him. I think he's kind of scared of him. And, of course, as the story goes, an incredible relationship of mutual respect and love develops between Ben and Willard."

Melanie Griffith
...established in films

"Working with Elijah Wood, who plays Ben, was quite amazing. He's a very intelligent boy for 10 years old. He instantly grasps what is being demanded of him and he contributed enormously to each scene."

Griffith also has something to say about Elijah's character. "Willard sort of brings my character's heart out again," Griffith says. "He gives so much love to her without pushing it or anything. It's just the way he shows her it's OK to be in touch with her feelings again."

"He also brings out feelings between my character and Don's that they haven't had the courage to deal with. And what happens during those two weeks changes all three of those characters' lives."

Johnson and Griffith had never been cast together. "Paradise"

Don Johnson
...still searching

screenwriter and director Mary Agnes Donoghue said she feels the two actors were the ideal choices for their parts in this picture because of an innate quality of spirit and pathos they brought to the story. Those are qualities Donoghue feels may have been rooted in some of their own personal experiences together.

"These aren't the type of people either of them has played before," Donoghue says. "However, there's a substance in Don and Melanie from real life that's very warm and very emotional."

"For instance, Melanie's character, Lily, is very reserved. Many other wonderful actresses would have come off cold. But Melanie has such a deep, inner warmth that comes through, even when she's completely still, that she makes it all work beautifully."

"Paradise" is set in a small quiet coastal fishing village. It was shot in the beautiful wetlands off the coast of Charleston, S.C., even though the script originally called for the story to be set in northern Michigan.

Griffith said that for she and Johnson, however, it didn't make any difference where they went to shoot "Paradise." They were just happy that some studio finally gave them the opportunity to do a picture together.

"It was nice to be working together," she said. "Usually, when we're working, we're apart. I once had to commute over a weekend from London to Los Angeles just to see him."

It's nice to work with your husband, it feels good to do scenes and feel safe with your partner."

The spread of the AIDS virus throughout the United States has left no one untouched. You can't pick up a newspaper or listen to the news several days without hearing about the victims, the medical problems or the political repercussions of the epidemic.

All of our lives have been touched by the deadly virus, even those of us far from the at-risk populations—homosexuals and intravenous drug users. Victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome now are dispersed throughout the general population and it is important for everyone to know the facts about the disease because its prevention demands informed, knowledgeable behavior.

The biggest fear of most parents with school-age children is that their child will have contact with an HIV-positive person. Extensive studies have shown that casual contact, even living in the same household with an HIV-positive individual, will not result in transmission of the disease.

The National PTA makes the following suggestions to parents:

• Don't panic. AIDS cannot be caught like a cold or the flu. It is not spread by sneezing, coughing, hugging or touching and it will not live long outside the human body. It is not spread by sharing toys, school supplies, towels or toilet seats.

Learn the facts about HIV and AIDS. Call the National AIDS hotline at 800-342-2437 for answers to your questions or to request information.

• Talk to your child about HIV and AIDS. Do not wait until he comes home from school with rumors or misconceptions. Tailor the information you present to the age of your child.

When discussing with your child the AIDS virus and how it is transmitted, you may want to review principles of good hygiene, such as proper hand-washing techniques, to help reduce the risk of infection.

Find out if your child's school has procedures for dealing with cuts, nosebleeds and other minor emergencies. If not, ask school officials to implement emergency guidelines for handling these situations.

Parents of a teen need to be sure their child has information about AIDS so that he can protect himself from contracting it through sexual activity or drug use.

Ignorance, in the case of teenagers, definitely is not bliss.

Lack of information will not stop teenagers from indulging in dangerous behaviors and knowledge will not cause them to initiate such behaviors.

It is a rare parent who does not need some help in discussing sex, drugs and death with his teenage child. The facts about AIDS are discussed in clear, concise and frank language in Jeanne Blake's "Risky Times: How To Be AIDS-Smart and Stay Healthy" (Workman Publishing, $5.95).

The book covers every aspect of the subject, from various forms of sex and the dangers of each form, to an explicit explanation of how to protect yourself during sexual intercourse.

Read the book before you hand it over to your child. Some parents may be uncomfortable with the contents, but it will answer any question your child might have.

AIDS is not a subject a parent wants to discuss with his child, but failure to do so could have lethal consequences.

Before wiring money to kids at college, check the cost

By Kathy Kristof

It's a rare parent who will never respond to the age-old request: "Could you please send me the phone bill?"

And now that school has started, it is just a matter of time before the phone calls start rolling in.

The reasons behind the frantic calls have hardly changed over the decades. College is an unexpectedly high expense or simple overspending. But now because of increasingly sophisticated technology and computerized agreements between banks, parents have more ways than ever to get their money to their children.

It is wise to look at these options beforehand because some are far more costly than others.

What are the options? Wiring money, securing a cash advance against a credit card, using an automated teller that's part of a network or simply sending cash. Which option makes the most sense is going to depend on how quickly your child needs the money and how much it costs to get it there.

Here's the breakdown of how much it costs to get money to a scholar between $200 and $500.

Traditionalists might wire funds through Western Union, a meter transaction which is this among the most expensive options. The company's automatic transfer service is based on the dollar amount sent and whether the sender goes to an office with the meter or not. The fee is the order to his or her credit card.

Those who pay cash will be charged a $22 fee to send $200 anywhere in the United States. Add $5 to the total if you want to use a credit card—which is what most people do when they order money over the phone. If you're sending $500, the fee rises to $40 (cash) or $45 (credit card). The recipient must go to a Western Union office to collect the money.

American Express also sells "money grams." But telephone banks are more common for those who hold American Express Optima cards. The fee for a money gram is $22 and $30 to send up to $500. (Those who don't have Optima cards can go into an American Express office and pay with cash.)

Western Union and American Express also offer money orders, usually available within the hour.

Parents also can wire money through banks. The fees vary, but typically range from $5 between $5 and $25 and may go both coming and going. Generally, the flat fee is $5 and the student will pay an additional $10 to receive it.

Usually, this is a very cost-effective option. However, there is one caveat. College students tend to use their automated teller cards frequently for small withdrawals, anything from $5 to $20, according to Ron Reed, senior vice president and manager of the Plus System's ATM network. On average, 18-to-24-year-olds use ATMs 6.5 times per month or about 2.3 times per month for those over the age of 35.
